Cause of Vivian Smith's Downfall.

His Associates Here Got the Money He Stole From His Employer.

The absconding of Vivian Smith with money belonging to Emmeluth & Co., published in yesterday's Advertiser, created no little comment among those who knew him.

Immediately upon the Advertiser notifying Mr. Emmeluth of his collector's sudden departure on the night he left, he placed the matter in the hands of the police. The idea at first was for Marshal Brown to go to San Francisco and get hold of the absconder, but since Mr. Marsh, of Whitney & Marsh, was going to the Coast on business, it was decided to put the matter in his hands. Mr. Marsh received his authorization from Marshal Brown and departed for San Francisco on the Hongkong Maru. It was considered useless to take out extradition papers before the 14th of June, as this would necessitate going to Washington. After June 14th it will not be necessary to go to the capital.

If notified, any chief of police in the United States would take it upon himse., to arrest Vivian Smith on suspicion and the probabilities are that the San Francisco police already have Smith in their keeping. Emmeluth has already stated that Smith was where hands could be laid upon him easily.

The Advertiser took pains to establish the lacts of the case before publishing the account of the robbery yesterday. Local correspondents for San Francisco papers already had the story and were ready to forward particulars to the Coast. In fact, news of Smith's theft left here from one source on the Hongkong Maru. So that it was very evident that the ends of justice could not in any way be defeated or affected by the publication of the facts in the Careful inquiries were made as to Vivian Smith's past history, his connections and antecedents, and it was learned among other things that, fortunately, he alone would have to bear the shame of his wrongdoing. He has no relatives in this city except an uncle and a young prother. His mother is not living, and his father is in San

SEWALL GETS A HALF VINDICATION

His Friends Engineer a Resolution Which speaks Well of His Patriotic Interludes.

Yesterday the political friends of Mr. Sewail busied themselves to get an indorsement from the G. A. R. of his surprising address on Decoration Day. It was a delicate task, for Mr. Sewall had told them in his speech that they had been forgotten and outlived, that Honolulu did not appreciate them and that they had been persecuted by a part of the American people. The Grand Army men knew better than this but the Memorial Day Committee, which had invited Me. which had invited Mr. Sewall and was in a measure responsible for him, thought it ought to compromise by indorsing what patriotic things he had said. These were not many, consider-ing what patriotism really means. but they sufficed as a peg to hang this resolution upon:

Honolulu, H. I., May 31, 1900.

At a meeting of the Memorial Day Committee, held this afternoon, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we, the undersigned members of the Memorial Day Committee of George W. DeLong Post, No. 45, G. A. R., most heartily endorse the patriotic sentiments set forth in the address delivered by Hon. H. M. Sewall in response to our special invitation at the response to our special invitation at the services at Nuuanu Cemetery on Memorial Day.

JAS. T. COPELAND,

As to the effect of the address it was very noticeable yesterday in the comment of the street, "bad taste" being the term generally used. Several old soldiers and many representative citizens congratulated the Advertiser on the stand it had made. The silly Bulletin tried to convince its few readers that this paper had "attacked De Long Post," but of course made no impression. It is a very dull man who can see anything except a defence of the Grand Army in the Advertiser's leader.

Editor Advertiser: Thank you for your straightforward defence of the G. A. R. The speech of Mr. Sewall was in execrable taste, and I am glad we have a paper in Honolulu which is courageous enough to say so. De Long Post is not conscious of ill-treatment either at the hands of the American people or the people of Honolulu, and it must have made the fact plain in the coolness with which it received Mr. Sewall's speech.

First Communion Service.

At the Roman Catholic Cathedral yesterday seventy young girls from the Sisters' School received their First Communion. The ceremony was most impressive. The girls were robed all in white and the Bishop of Panopolis administered the sacrament.

In all cases of physical or mental exhaustion, the use of a little Jesse Moore "AA" Whiskey will be found invaluable as a stimulant.
